

News from Baptist Health Care Leadership Institute

Contact: Becky Clark, (850) 469-7857

September 29, 2008

The Baptist Health Care Leadership Institute Named Top 100 Leadership Development Programs

PENSACOLA, FL- The Baptist Health Care Leadership Institute has been named one of the top 100 Leadership Development Programs in America by Executive Excellence, a global leadership development firm, in the October issue of its monthly magazine, Leadership Excellence. This prestigious award recognizes the best programs and practices, based on seven crucial areas for leadership: 1) vision/mission; 2) involvement and participation; 3) measurement and accountability; 4) design, content, and curriculum; 5) presenters, presentations, and delivery; 6) take-home value for participants; and 7) outreach and outcomes of the programs and products. The Leadership Institute is listed among LD programs such as Ritz-Carlton, McDonald's, Yahoo, Microsoft and Disney, to name a few. The award recognizes organizations that take the art of developing leaders seriously by surveying 500 organizations to capture and assess the best leadership development practices.

“These programs deliver the best return on investment!” Ken Shelton, Editor-in-Chief, CEO Executive Excellence Publishing and Leadership Excellence Magazine said.

“Participants come in with clear expectations and go away with concrete applications and accountability for application and results. The expectation is that every function will meet the same high standards. In the best programs, leadership development is worth the investment. In the worst programs, it is largely a waste of time and money.”

Founded in 2002, The Baptist Health Care Leadership Institute is a consulting firm specializing in guiding health systems through culture change to service excellence. They have coached more than 10,000 healthcare professionals from 50 states and abroad.

#####